

Not so hot emission methods (3)

Compton scattering: “rebound radiation”

- A high-energy photon hits a low-energy electron. The photon loses energy, and the electron gains some.
- Inverse Compton Scattering: A low-energy photon hits a relativistic electron. The photon gains energy, becoming an X- or gamma ray.

